As all our customers know, Millenson's never have a store-wide sale. Our fair-price policy and reasonable margin of profit do not permit it. Nevertheless, in the normal course of business we occumulate a lot of things which must be sold at reduced prices.

There are floor samples that may be a bit soiled or shop worn, odd pieces lett when the rest of the group has been sold, discontinued lines and things, that for no good reason at all, just don't sell. We must get these things out of the way to make room

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ...

is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Fallacy Of Federal Secrecy

Secrecy is essential in wartime, but even then it can be carried too far. Communications are essential on the battlefield, despite the risk that the enemy may intercept messages, because if one commander doesn't know what other commanders on his side are doing their forces may tangle with each other. America's peacetime or cold-war secrecy is producing just such snafus.

More and more testimony to that effect is being heard in Washington. Scientific secrecy seems to be particularly overdone. One estimate is that 90 per cent of the nation's scientific "secrets" should be declassified. Only the remaining 10 per cent, if that, would benefit the enemy if it leaked out.

This wouldn't matter much, perhaps, if the secrecy did no harm. But science progresses through exchange of information. Barriers to that exchange have now grown so high that scientists on a government project may be barred from consulting with colleagues engaged on another aspect of the same project. Thus scientific development lags.

Information about bows and arrows has already been classified, it was revealed recently, This should be followed by classifying everything that can be found about cross-bows, cannon, swords, switchblade knives, muskets, clubs-and, of course, all biblical reference to David's Subject to a minimum of secrecy absolutely necessary for security, the American people have a right to know what goes on. As George Washington once said: "Concealment is a species of misinformation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Question Of Sincerity

When President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles say that they would like the Russians to show that they are sincere, they raise a moral issue which may be translated by the layman into the very simple terms that they believe the Russians do not mean what they say, or, in still simpler language that they are lying Take, for instance, the statement which Andrei Gromyko made to the Supreme Soviet on December 21, the question of what strategy

"You know that the 10-year discussions in the U.N. organs on the disarmament problem have not produced agreement and have now been suspended. The reason for this state of affairs is that our chief partners in the disarmament talks - the United States, the United Kingdom, as well as France, acting in line with them-do not want, as the facts have shown, to bind themselves by any commitments with regard to the restriction of armaments and measures to prevent the stockpiling and improving of nuclear weapons . . ."

This is literally untrue. It is not a difference of opinion. It is not a divergent view as to the facts. It is literally untrue as Gromyko knew when he said it. because Gromyko sat with Bernard Baruch during 1946 and debated just this question. He also had private meetings with Baruch. At that time, we believed that we possessed the atom bomb and Russia did not possess it. We proposed to sacrifice our advantage. provided an adequate system of inspection and control could be devised.

Gromyko never told Baruch, naturally, that we were living in the clouds about our advantage, that Force as a solution, but this was Soviet Russia already had the bomb and was moving ahead with further developments. However, he rejected any system of inspection and control and from that day to this, Soviet Russia has made it absolutely impossible to reach an agreement.

In his autobiography, Bernard Baruch has much to say on this subject:

The plan for international atomic control which I had the honor of presenting to the United Nations on behalf of the United States government did not assume that this country would hold its atomic monopoly indefinitely. We were well aware that in time we had to expect other nations to develop atomic weapons. But whether one or sixty-one nations possess nuclear weapons does not alter the unyielding fact that no nation can have effective insurance against atomic destruction unless there is a sure system of control to guard against the diversion of atomic energy for military purposes.

Then he concludes:

"Whatever lies behind the Soviet attitude, the choice before the world remains the same - real control or none. A ban on the testing of nuclear weapons will not meet the problem. Even if these tests are discontinued, the dread danger of atomic attack still would threaten . . .

"The grim danger of radioactive fallout would disappear if effective control could be established over all nuclear weapons. There would then be no need for any tests; the scientists of the world would be working together to expand the peaceful uses of the atom.' Gromyko, in the speech quoted above, says, how-

"The United States and the United Kingdom, as hitherto, evade a solution of the disarmament problem. making an appropriate agreement contingent on a whole series of farfetched and unfeasible terms, especially with regard to control over disarmament . Of course, the difficulty here is that as long as the Russians object to inspection and control, we have to take them at their word. We do not object to inspection and control. The British do not object to inspecion and control.

The Russians would prefer a prohibition against the manufacture of atom and hydrogen bombs. Suppose we agree to their terms and we did sign a solemn treaty, after a Summit Conference. Then we stop making bombs and they do not stop. Then

The issue is stated simply but not oversimplified. If they want to end the manufacture of bombs, why not agree to a system of inspection and control? It is, of course, a sacrifice of a degree of sovereignty. We are willing to make that sacrifice. They are not. As one reads the whole of Gromyko's speech, it is not difficult to understand why his sincerity is questioned. I, not being engaged in diplomacy, would say

Financial Worries May Have Driven Tycoon Robert Young To Suicide

WASHINGTON - Inside fact about dynamic Bob Young, head of the New York Central, who shot the side of his face off in a Palm Beach attic the other day, was that he had been trying for months to sell his house in Palm Beach and had taken a mortgage on his home in Newport, R. I. On one other occasion a relative had wrested a revolver from his hands

Reasons for his depression were: 1, He had hoped to make the New York Central prosper and wasn't succeeding; 2, his Alleghany Corporation held substantial loans for a big real estate firm in New York which is shaky: 3, his assets were locked into the Alleghany Corporation by a three-year-old Supreme Court suit brought by one stockholder, Randolph Phillips.

Schemes For Eliminating Inter-Service Rivalry WASHINGTON-The American people have been hearing a lot lately about "a single chief of staff" for the armed forces and a "reorganization of the Pentagon" so as to eliminate what is called "inter-service rivalries."

Yet few people know the background of the controversy and the hidden issues debated in the Pentagon-the five-sided building where thousands of officers of all the armed services perform their daily functions

There is really nothing wrong with the "Pentagon" that a little information from Soviet Russia wouldn't cure, as, for instance, exactly when the next war will break out and where and what kind of war it will be-that is, 'local" or "limited" or "global."

Fundamentally, the main discussions here during the last decade have been concerned with kind of war came. Just as World War II ended, many of those who have argued that the concept of air power is above all else in importance urged a single chief of all the armed services. They felt that naturally he would have to be an air man and could blend the operations of the other services into a single-service idea. But the Army, which for a long time had been theoretically in favor of a single chief and a general staff, balked at having its tactical air force, for example, taken away from ground troops and insisted also that the groundwarfare concept could not be shoved aside altogether especially since "local" wars could not be dismissed as unlikely. There was talk of making a separate service out of the Strategic Air

What Your Heart Sounds Tell The Physician By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

In the circumstances, the shsh sound is caused by the rapid movement of blood through the Some murmurs are heard over heart or from eddying currents noise stems from the contracted heart as it rubs against the lungs. It is not easy to determine whether a murmur is functional or organic. Much depends on whether a cause for heart disease exists, such as rheumatic fever. The physician also looks for enlargement or abnormalities in the electrocardiogram. The loudness of the heart tones is a rough index of the strength of the beat. The rate and regularity of the old ticker are noted at this time, although the pulse is counted at the wrist.

*The examination also includes percussion. Thumping the chest with the fingers offers a clew as to the size and shape of the heart. These examinations call for top diagnostic skill, because the information obtained is limited. The physician cannot see or feel the heart and welcomes the additional information provided by tests such as the X-ray and the electrocardiogram.

Yes. These lesions are difficult to remove in toto and recur if only a smidgeon remains. Another operation will be needed to eradicate the cyst and the chances are good for complete diseases.

Segregation

By Brother Barnabas

Quite a furore has risen throughout the southland over the Civil Rights issue, precipitated crimination. by the Supreme Court's interpretation of the 14th Amendment. The attempts to integrate the black and white populations that have always had segregation have met violent resistance in many localities, as witness the Little Rock fracas. That incident has sparked a mild hysteria over the whole become a political as well as a humanitarian issue. Communities unaware of racial discrimination within their borders, have turned the spotlight upon themselves to see whether their doorsteps have been smudg-

If any prejudice or assumption of superiority of one race over another is found it will be repudiated by responsible citizens is eradicated.

This will be done not by the beating of tom-toms and waving of flags, nor by guerrilla attacks, but quietly and without fanfare in happy accord with the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, and

It will be done by all good citizens in any given community joining forces in creating an atmosphere of good will which will make it difficult for racial snobbery to exist.

That cannot be done overnight. It must be by the gentle compulsion of an idea which like seed sown in the earth "sprouts and grows, first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear" (Mark 4:28)

The big idea is that there is but one race—the human race and we are all interrelated and interdependent.

If a man stops a drunken driver and saves my life, I don't hold it against him if he happens to be a colored man. And if Roy Campanella knocks a home run, I don't walk out on the game.

If I were forming a partnership in business I would rather be associated with a black man with a white heart, than a white man with a black heart. Regardless of race, color or previous condition of servitude we are all together in the business of running the government, paying taxes, donating to the blood bank, buying at the stores, settling up with the doctors, lawyers, priests and prelates, underfor office. In all these categories we are on the same footing.

There is, on the contrary, a growing feeling of mutual respect for the rights and privileges of others.

greatness and goodness are not bound by racial lines. The lifting up of Christian ideals will in time cause the barriers to melt like mists before the morning sun. The change will come about from within the hearts of men rather than from without. A conference between the whites and blacks was being held in a southern state. The matter was debated pro and con.

The chairman of the meeting was a white man, and he said, "There will always be segregation. There will be segregation in heaven."

The closing prayer was offered by a Negro, who in closing (Don't quote me) said: "We thank Thee, Lord, that when we takers and such as are running all get to heaven we can sit where we d-n please.
